

To Whom It May Concern:

Connecticut is such a densely populated state for being so small geographically. We need every bit of open space to teach our children about the seasons, native plants and animals. We need open space to teach our children that if they need to clear their heads and refocus, they can go to the woods or a field and walk, take a deep breath of fresh air and rejuvenate.

There are so many area of Connecticut where industries have left, leaving behind empty warehouses or brownfield sites. Let us clean up those sites and utilize the land we have already taken.

Please keep our woods, fields and streams undeveloped so that future generations can enjoy them.

Thank you,
Erin Buckley
